Cameron, Rosebud To Show New Programs

Cameron ISD and Rosebud-Lott ISD are among 32 Texas schools which will be invited to open the doors of their individualized instruction programs to other educators seeking workable ways to tailor the class day to the needs of each boy and girl beginning in February, 1972.

These programs, which range from kindergarten through high school, form the first elements of a statewide demonstration network of different types of individualized instruction.

In Cameron, the program is the seventh grade social studies at Cameron Junior High School, and in Rosebud, it is the teaching methods modeled on the British Infant School used in the primary classes.

The 32 programs are, at the moment, among the best that 28 public and four private and parochial schools in the state have to offer Texas students, according to the Texas Education Agency. Some of them include one or two grades in a school or even a single subject in one grade. Others may include the entire school.

"Public school teachers and administrators, university professors of education, and members of school boards will be invited to observe the program during the regular classroom day in order to get the most realistic view," Wayne Kilgore of Tyler, chairman of the steering committee which selected the schools, said.

Kilgore, director of administrative services for the Tyler Independent School District, headed an 11-member group representing the Texas Education Agency, regional education service centers, schools and colleges of education, Southwest Educational Development Laboratory and the school districts in the state.

Each school nominated for the demonstration network must have had a successful individualized instruction program underway for at least one year, have strong staff and community support, and be willing to tell others about it.

"We hope these schools which have shown so much initiative and imagination will be willing to share their results," Charles Nix, Texas Education Agency associate commissioner for planning, said.

"There are so many different ways to put teaching on an individual basis for the student we believe persons in the profession and those vitally concerned with education will learn a great deal by seeing the success stories at work."

Instruction in these selected schools has been paced to the needs of students in many ways, including team teaching, programmed materials, and the use of large open areas in place of classrooms.

Commissioners View Sprinkler Bids; OK Bonus

County Commissioners opened bids on a lawn sprinkler system for the courthouse grounds Monday and tabled them for further study.

Bids by three firms for the sprinkler system ranged from $1,623 to $3,913 with variations on area covered and type of material.

In other business, Commissioners formally adopted a resolution increasing officers' salaries effective January 1, and approved a Christmas bonus for employees.

Symphony To Give 3 Concerts, Clinic

Cellist To Play Evening Solo

Cameron awaits bigtime symphonic music.

The Dallas Symphony will play three concerts Tuesday, January 11 and principals of brass and woodwind sections will conduct a clinic for Yoe High School band January 12.

The two-day schedule is set for some 3,000 students and adults, including priority seating during two student performances for all 1650 Cameron Independent School District students and professional personnel.

Additional students from other Milam school districts will take up remaining student seats, according to Frank M. Luecke, chairman of the Symphony committee.

Members of Yoe High School Honor Society will be selling advance tickets and will usher during both afternoon performances for students. Tickets will be available starting Monday, December 20. Evening tickets are $2.50 each.

A portion of the advance tickets will be reserved seats. Others will be unreserved seats. Ushers will be members of the Arts and Service League.

Dallas Symphony, under the direction of Anshel Brusilow, will play a feature concert 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 11. The afternoon concerts for students will begin at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. at National Guard Armory.

A separate program for students has been developed and advance information about symphonic music and orchestras is in the hands of Cameron school officials.

SOLO CELLIST

Ralph Kirshbaum, solo cellist, will be featured in the first half of the concert, playing "Rococo Variations," Opus 33, by Tchaikovsky.

Brusilow will open the program with two Wagnerian excerpts, Introduction to Act III, "Lohengrin," and Prelude and Liebestod from "Tristan Und Isolde."

Following intermission, the 85-piece orchestra will return to play Rimsky - Korasakow's "Capriccio Espagnol," Ravel's "Alborada del Gracioso" and Richard Strauss' "Dance of the Seven Veils from Salome."

Burglars Break Into Forbes Store

Forbes Store in Thorndale was burglarized Monday night for the second time in less than a week.

Sheriff Carl Black said thieves took about $90 in cash when they broke into the general merchandise store last Thursday night. Only cigarettes and a few items of clothing were missing after the Monday night break-in.

Sheriff Black said entry was gained through a boarded-over air conditioner opening.

200 Countians Honor Cong. Poage

About 200 Milam Countians attended a dinner Monday night boosting Cong. W. R. Poage, U. S. House agriculture committee chairman and 11th District legislator.

The "appreciation dinner" followed a reception at Rockdale Junior High School Cafeteria for Cong. and Mrs. Poage.

The veteran congressman, 35 years representative of the 11th Congressional District, defended a $2.5 billion subsidy program in the annual $6.5 billion federal agriculture budget.

He noted American families spend only 16 1/2 percent of their income on food while Russia spends 45 to 50 percent and Far East na-

Assisting Brusilow during the day will be Asst. Conductor Earl Bernard Murray.

RECEPTIONS PLANNED

Two receptions for personnel and evening audience are scheduled. Cameron Chamber is sponsoring a brunch noon Tuesday for orchestra personnel at First Methodist Fellowship Hall.

And leaders of Friends of the Library will serve refreshments during intermission and after performance for the crowd of Central Texans. Friends leadership will also coordinate afternoon activities during the student concerts.

It is the first time a major symphony has played in Milam County. Cameron is the only concert date for the two-day tour for the Symphony that week.

About 12 principal chair musicians will conduct a clinic for YHS band the following day at Yoe Band Hall, according to Dalton Harbers.

Sponsoring groups beside the Cameron Chamber and Cameron Library Friends are Cameron Independent School District, National Endowment of the Arts, Washington, D.C., the Alcoa Foundation, Pittsburgh, Pa. and other school districts sending students to the second afternoon performance.

Additional student seats may be set aside for the evening performance, Luecke said, depending upon demand for advance ticket sales.

Facilities of Cameron National Guard Armory will be used during the three performances. Seating for 1000 persons per performance will be installed. Armory classrooms will be used for dressing and musician warmup rooms.

Cougars To Try For State Title

The Rosebud-Lott Cougars will meet Jacksboro Friday night in Baylor Stadium for the final game in State AA playoffs. Game time will be 8 p.m.

The Cougars downed Hondo 30-7 in the semifinals at Seguin Friday night.

Advance tickets went on sale at Rosebud at $3 for adults and $1 for students.

In the semifinal game, the Cougars held the Hondo Owls to seven first downs and 81 yards rushing, while they racked up 27 first downs and 322 yards rushing.

SEN. MURRAY WATSON

Watson To Run For Congressman In 11th District

State Sen. Murray Watson Jr. of Mart announced Wednesday afternoon that he will be a candidate for Congress, 11th District, in the 1972 Democratic primary election.

"I am seeking this important office," said Watson, "because the people of this district have convinced me it is time for a change."

The 11th District seat is now held by U.S. Cong. W. R. Poage, who has announced his candidacy for another term.

Watson, a 39-year-old Waco attorney and businessman, has served in the Texas House of Representatives and in the Texas Senate for 16 years, representing the Central Texas counties of McLennan, Bell, Falls, Limestone and Milam. Watson has never been defeated in a race for public office.

In announcing his candidacy at a news conference here, Watson said, "I plan to wage an active and vigorous campaign in all the 14 counties comprising the 11th Congressional District. These are McLennan, Bell, Williamson, Milam, Burnet, Mills, Lampasas, Hamilton, Coryell, Bosque, Hood, Somervell and Parker counties."

Watson has served three terms in the Texas House, and is now serving his third term in the Texas Senate.

Watson said he would announce his campaign platform later and discuss the issues as the campaign progresses.

"I have always considered public service a public trust," Watson said, "and have worked diligently and conscientiously to represent all the people. This I shall continue to do."

also noted that "we have subsidized airlines, ocean and river shipping as well."

He was introduced by W. P. Hogan, Rockdale businessman. Master of ceremonies was Emory C. Camp, Rockdale attorney. Invocation was by Rev. J. Stewart Bell and benediction by J. M. Moorman, superintendent of Rockdale Schools.

Kenneth Smith, Rockdale industrial executive, led pledge of allegiance and Keith Wall provided dinner music at the piano.

The crowd ate a catered dinner prior to Poage's address.

Sam Peebles, of Rockdale presented Mrs. Poage an Alcoa aluminum tray following the address.

The Dreams Of Others...

Cong. W. R. Poage, 35 years a federal legislator for the 11th District, "hopes I (he) see visions."

He was speaking of the changing needs of rural development and "making the rural area serve a broader spectrum of society."

The Congressman spoke at a Rockdale dinner sponsored by his Milam County boosters.

We could not agree more that we need vision to see what the Congressman noted as insoluble problems of the cities except for reverse migration to rural areas.

When a U. S. House committee chairman says this, it has a ring of authority. Your Herald has tried to develop the relationship for a decade.

He called the need for "amenities", rural water and sewer systems, growing large. He listed many things he sponsored for improvement of rural life and defended the farm subsidy system, only $2.5 billion of an approximate $6.5 billion agriculture budget. A budget, we note, which is regularly attacked by the dominant city representation in the U. S. House.

Though his vision, in our view, is accurate, how does a farm minority convince city representation to take away, in effect, the long-sought voting power to spend more money, federal money, piped directly to cities.

It may be impossible. But perhaps enough legislators will be honest enough to admit that, for example, an additional billion dollars for welfare in New York City will only satisfy minimum needs and attract others who see it a better deal than they have elsewhere. And the central city cycle is only that much more endless and more a maelstrom which swallows people and city cultures and scatters the productive people further from problem areas.

Your Herald is foolish enough to believe in dreams, in civic visions. We well remember a business man a decade ago who asked us "why we were so interested in helping make a 'third-rate town,' meaning a 'country town', 'into a small, modern city.'"

That was 10 years ago. We wish he were alive today to hear Cong. Poage and to see the downtown development, the outlying development, the industry, the hospitals, the Folk Fete, the streets, the new housing, the news that the Dallas Symphony is coming to town. And not a 'third rate' town by any notion.

If that is what Cong. Poage means by visions, we believe in them; some visions and dreams come true. And it may be remote, but the relationship between central city disaster and rural stagnation of the past 25 years may be explicable to metro legislators.

The trick, the grand slam, the coup, the kicker is to make your dreams and visions the dreams of others.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

LIFES BLOOD MAY BE DEADLY

REP. VICTOR V. VEYSEY (Calif.) "... Today I am introducing a bill (H.R. 11828) to deal with the deadly problems with human blood in America.

"In 1971 over 2 million blood transfusions will be performed in the United States. One out of every 150 of these will cause a death from serum hepatitis in the over 40 age group, plus a lot of very sick younger people. ...

"The HEW Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reported 52,583 cases of serum hepatitis in 1970. This is only the tip of the iceberg. ...

"For years, it has been clear that much of the hepatitis in this country comes from one source; the paid blood donor. Here is a man or woman with a reason to lie about his past medical history to get the money. He may be an alcoholic or a drug addict or live in conditions that invipaid donors make it easy to ooze for booze, but the product they sell is death by the pint.

"I want it clearly understood that many blood banks do not operate this way. There are many conscientious and reliable blood banks in this country, but their reputations are smeared by the tactics of the others. The best way to aid reputable blood banks is to require the less scrupulous ones to live up to the same high standards. My bill would require this. ... It also recognized the dilemma faced by doctors who cannot judge the risk in the blood they administer. My bill requires the source of all blood to be clearly stated on its label. ...

"Not enough people donate because Americans have grown to believe that untainted blood can be bought and sold like hamburger rather than understanding the precious nature of this life-giving fluid. The Red Cross, even with the assistance of organized labor is unable to do the

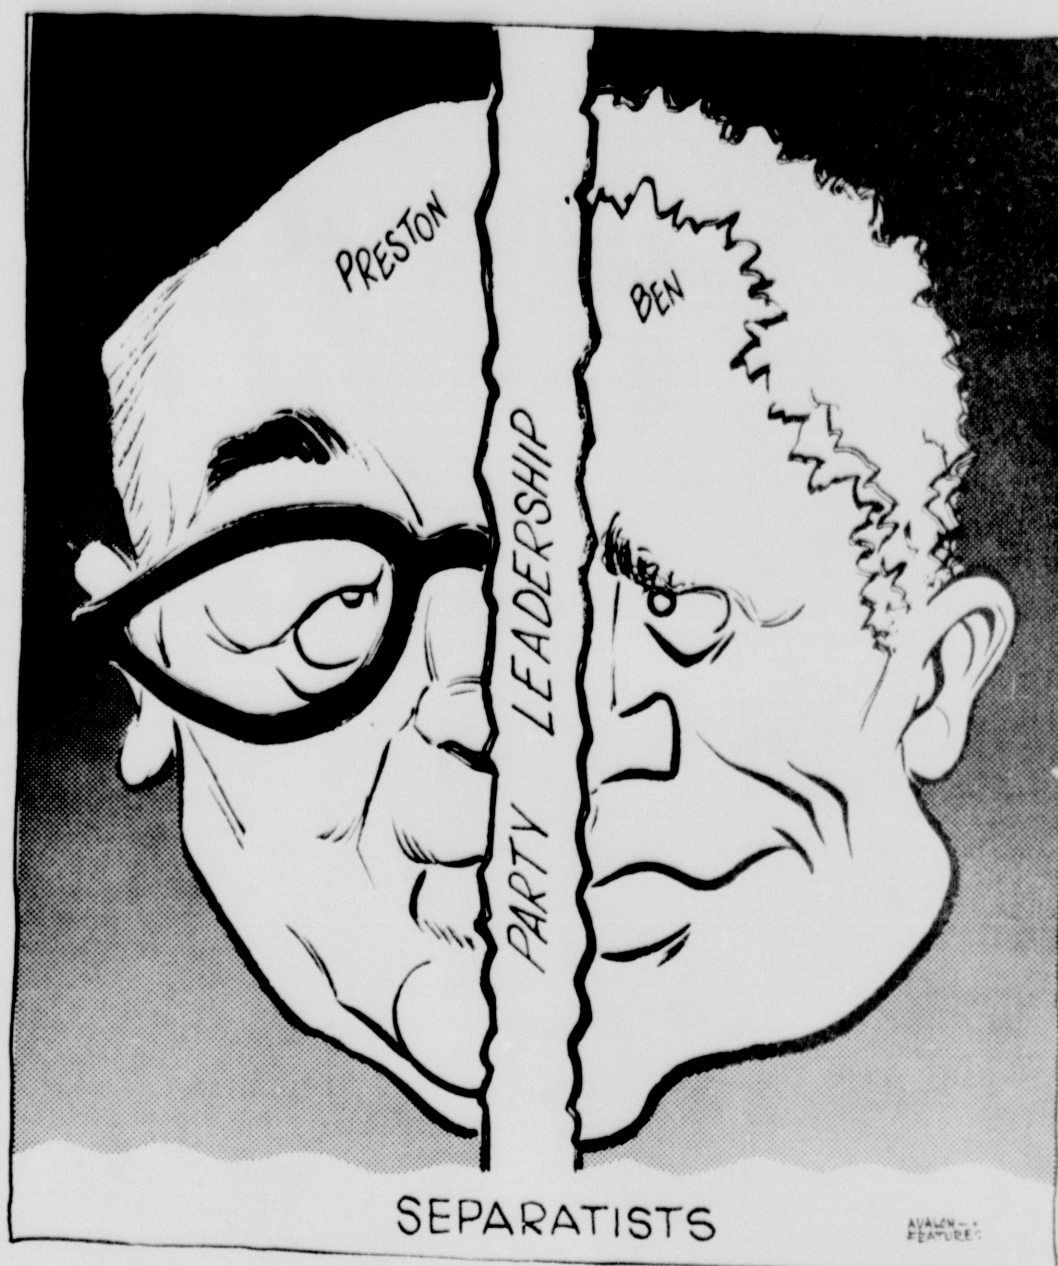

"The factor in the explosion of hepatitis today is the lack of adequate inspection and supervision of the blood banks. SEVENTEEN STATES HAVE NO LAW WHATSOEVER ON BLOOD BANKING, AND 21 OTHERS HAVE ONLY ONE-- THAT BEING A LAW TO PREVENT PATIENTS INFECTED BY Tainted Blood FROM RECOVERING MONETARY DAMAGES. IN THESE STATES ANYTHING IS LEGAL. Anyone could run a blood bank. It would be legal to use the blood of cadavers, or very ill people. ONLY SEVEN STATES LICENSE BLOOD BANKS, AND ONLY FIVE INSPECT THEM. ...

"I have in my hand a voucher used to pay the donors at a commercial blood bank here in Washington, D.C., its made out for $5 which is the going rate, but the ONLY PLACE THIS VOUCHER CAN BE CASHED IS MOE'S LIQUOR STORE in the 1200 block of H. Street. ...

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Sending this column to Rep. Victor V. Veysey, Longworth House Office Building, Room 1227, Washington, D.C., would indicate your support for H.R. 11828.

He asks for a major national effort to recruit voluntary blood donors. -J.C.

Public Hearing Discusses Auto Insurance Proposals

By Bill Boykin

Insurance bounced back into the news on three fronts here last week.

State Board of Insurance Chairman Larry Teaver promised, after a public hearing, to review all aspects of the new catastrophe pool for windstorm coverage in high risk coastal areas.

Agents and property owners complained of price gouging and of companies' allegedly unloading on the pool properties which should be insured at standard rates. Companies denied the charges.

Board also took under consideration an Allstate Insurance Company proposal to cut auto coverage rates up to 20 per cent for new-model cars equipped with shock-absorbing bumpers.

All 1973 and later cars must have bumpers which can withstand a five miles an hour front-end crash and a two and a half miles per hour rear-end wallop without damage.

Allstate proposed to allow discounts to become effective with 1972 model cars equipped at owners' expense with the tested shock-absorbing bumpers.

Initial reduction would be 10 per cent in premiums for the five mph front, two and a half mph rear safety protection. The cut would reach 20 per cent for cars which can be crashed at five mph into a test barrier, front and rear, with no damage to the vehicle.

Board members heard support and opposition to proposed new rules to curb arbitrary cancellations and non-renewals on property and casualty insurance. Under the regulations, auto insurance in effect 60 days could be cancelled only for failure to pay premiums or where driver's licenses have been suspended or revoked. Companies could cancel coverage at annual expiration dates by giving 30 days written notice.

Teaver advised a rule prohibiting cancellations for "age alone."

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court ordered Cooke County district court trial of a teenager's suit against his father for alleged negligence on the job which led to a serious permanent injury.

Case was the first in which the state's top court had considered whether parents should be immune to actions brought by their children due to events outside the normal family relationship.

In two other cases, the Supreme Court sent applications for savings and loan association branches -- in Hallettsville and Bay City -- back to Commissioner W. Sale Lewis for further proceedings. Lewis had approved the applications, but had not filed a required concise statement of underlying facts supporting his finding, court opinions concluded.

AG OPINIONS

Laws prohibiting dumping of refuse within 300 yards of public highways and anti-dumping statutes pertaining to public and private properties and public waters are both valid and can be harmonized, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

* Flight schools are subject to new Texas Proprietary School Act.

* Texas Water Rights Commission can test any claim of a right to use water under water code provisions by the legal requirement of past beneficial use of water without a formal adjudication of all claims on the stream.

* Legislators are entitled to 16 cents per highway mile for use of personally-owned airplanes on official business trips.

* Authority exists for establishing a central services account for Texas Tech University and Texas Tech University School of Medicine.

* Procedure for assessing the Harris County domed stadium for taxation is unchanged by legislation passed this year. Taxable leasehold estates on exempt property are to be valued at the price they would bring at voluntary sale for cash based on value of comparable improvements on non-exempt property.

* A hydrologist employed by the Rio Grande Compact Commissioner can be paid $11,616 a year, although the commissioner himself is limited by law to $6,000.

LAND BIDS ACCEPTED

Bonus bids of more than $1.7 million on oil and gas leases were accepted by the School Land Board for the permanent school fund.

Seventy-six bids covered 39,843 acres of state-owned lands and averaged $44.77 an acre.

Meanwhile, Land Commissioner Robert Armstrong said revised rules and regulations for oil drilling pollution control in coastal waters will require all oil spills or other mishaps to be reported to the land office within 24 hours of discovery. Written notification will be required of all operations on state leases.

PARTY RULES COMPLY

New state Democratic party rules on delegate selection comply with national and statutory requirements, Texas National Committee woman Mrs. Carrin Patman of Ganado reported.

The rules for selection of convention delegations will soon go to the State Democratic Executive Committee for consideration. SDEC Chairman Roy Orr indicated a meeting will be held in mid-January to act on them following a public hearing.

12,000 GET RAISES

Retrospective pay raises have been cleared for 12,000 (of 63,000) state employees who get $2 or less an hour.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

No telling what the situation will be by the time this shows up in The Cameron Herald, but right now India and Pakistan are fighting and what puzzles me about it is that both sides have already claimed to have won.

This is a strange new turn to modern war. If you'll recall, Israel whipped Egypt a few years in six days, and two months later Egypt was back on its feet threatening to invade Israel, and even today both are glaring at each other and offering to fight again if somebody will furnish the planes.

By the time you read this, still more wars may have broken out, again with both sides claiming victory. Quick, who won the Jordanian war year before last?

I have been thinking about this and it seems to me the United Nations is missing a bet. Instead of trying to prevent wars by the only means it has, namely wringing its hands and imploring each side to lay off, the U.N. should merely regulate them, like the commissioner of football regulates the professional teams.

If we're going to have so many wars with nobody sure who won and nobody staying whipped after he's whipped, we ought to organize the world into leagues and divisions, just like the pros. Put the Middle East in one division, Latin America in another, Europe in another, etc., have play-offs to decide the division winners, and finally come on down to the super bowl to determine the world champion for that year.

The U.N. should step in and set up some rules. For example, wars ought to have a definite time limit. Even though 50 million people are tuned in to a Sunday afternoon football game, how many would still be tuned in if the game didn't stop after two and a half hours but ran on through the evening and night and was still going Monday morning? Look what's happened to interest in the Viet Nam war. Nobody can kill the clock that long and expect to hold an audience.

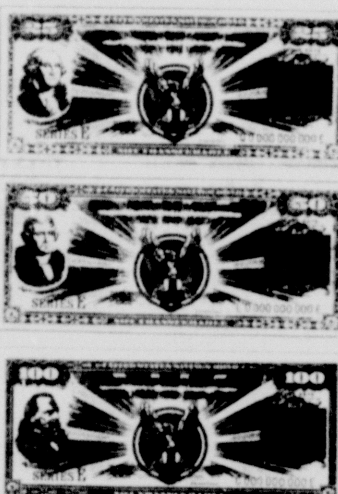

I'll tell you, these wildcat wars, fought helter-skelter with no regular schedules, everybody fighting when he thinks he has the material and nobody ever knowing who won, are getting so frequent that if they keep going people are going to lose interest and the networks will never be able to sell any commercials on such a program. Can you tell me the name of a single player on the Bangla Dosh team?

If the U.N. doesn't know how to stop wars, at least it ought to organize them so a man could check his local listings to see who's scheduled.

Of course, there was a way proposed a couple of thousand years ago to end wars but nobody has paid much attention to it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about wages and prices.

Q - Will raw agricultural products, such as fresh fruit and vegetables, be excluded from the standards for prices set by the Price Commission?

A - Yes, just as during the freeze, raw agricultural products will be excluded.

Q - How will prices and wages be controlled by the Price Commission and the Pay Board?

A - The Price Commission and the Pay Board have published standards and criteria for the control of all prices and wages which will be covered during the post-freeze program. In addition, the economy will be divided into three parts or tiers for different surveillance and reporting procedures.

Certain large firms and collective bargaining units that are of critical importance for the control of inflation will be required to notify the Board of Commission in advance of proposed wage or price increases.

Other large economic units will be required to report periodically on their prices, employee compensation, and other matters as may be specified.

The behavior of prices and wages in the remainder of the economy, comprising the largest number of economic units (usually smaller firms), will be monitored by spot-checks and investigations of complaints by the Internal Revenue Service.

Q - Are dividends and interest subject to legal restraints under the Economic Stabilization Program?

A - No. However, the Committee on Interest and Dividends, established by the President, will formulate and execute a program for obtaining voluntary restraints on selected interest rates. The Committee will also continue the Voluntary program for the restraint of dividend payments, subject to possible changes of standards and coverage.

The President has asked

Congress for amendments to the Economic Stabilization Act to provide stand-by authority to impose mandatory control of interest rates and dividend payments. However, the use of this authority is not expected to be necessary.

Q - How long will the second phase of the Economic Stabilization Program last?

A - No time limit is being set. The objective is to end the program as soon as possible, but it will be kept in operation until the pattern of sharply increasing prices and wages has been broken. It will be ended when stability has been restored to the economy.

As we approach the goal, controls of particular sectors may be removed or relaxed when that action is consistent with the general objectives of the program and will assist the transition to price stability.

A task force of the Cost of Living Council has been established with a continuing responsibility to recommend steps to insure that the program is not unnecessarily prolonged.

Q - Are retailers and wholesalers required to post base prices in their places of business?

A - In an earlier column, it was incorrectly said that wholesalers must meet this posting requirement. This is not so. Only retailers are required to display base prices. These postings must be made on or before January 1, 1972. No price increases are allowed until such base prices have been posted.

County Agent's Notes

Agent Views Cotton Crop, Opportunity For Pecans

By Bill McCutchen

There were reports from all over Central Texas this year that cotton was unusually difficult to defoliate and strip due possibly to excess moisture late in the season and late plant growth.

Joe Mueck of Rt. 1, Cameron said that his cotton was hard to defoliate this year and many of the lower bolls were rotten and broke in the stripping process making the fields look pretty messy following stripping. Joe had two cotton varieties on his place this year, Lankart 3840 and Lankart 571; and commented that he wasn't really pleased with yields on either variety this year.

In evaluating the varieties he said that it was difficult to say which was best and he would plant both varieties again next year. He commented that the 3840 was a more bushy plant and did not strip as well as 571, but indicated that yield was about the same and staple length better on the 3840.

In 1970 Joe had S.P. 21 and S.P. 37 in demonstration plantings. He said that while yields were comparable to the Lankart varieties, under irrigated conditions the S.P. 21 was too stemmy for stripper cotton, and the micro-naine rating lowered the value of the S.P. cotton.

I am of the opinion that the S.P. varieties may have a place in Milam County. S.P. cotton can be planted earlier, and is ready for harvest earlier. This would be of considerable value to a farmer with considerable acreage. By using S.P. and other varieties he would be able to stagger his harvest operations and not have all of his cotton ready to harvest at one time.

PECANS

Pecan production has the possibility of adding significantly to the agricultural income of Milam County. Mother Nature has lined the county's river and creek bottoms with pecan trees that with care and attention have the capacity to produce a half million dollar crop annually.

Milam County pecan production has ranged from 12,000 pounds in 1939 to 1,000,000 pounds in 1970. The 1970 crop sold for an average of 35¢ a pound in shell and added $350,000 to the county's economy.

The attitude toward the pecan has basically been, if it makes okay and if not okay; but this attitude overlooks the fact that pecans have the potential of being one of the highest dollar value per acre crops we have.

The beauty of the pecan is also that two crops can be produced on the same land; beef cattle and pecans. Native pastures or small grains work well in pecan groves, but don't make the mistake of sprigging coastal bermuda or seeding common bermuda where you wish pecan production. The competition for moisture and plant nutrients are too great.

Many people consider pecans to be an "alternate bearer", that is; they produce a crop every other year. That just isn't so; and I can show you pecan groves that produce commercial crops every year. To do this it requires the kind of management devoted to any other cash crop.

In many instances selective thinning of pecan groves is the first step toward consistent production. Non-productive, diseased, injured, or trees producing a poor quality nut should be removed first. The remainder of the trees should be thinned so that at mid-day not over 50% of the land in the bottom is shaded, as over-crowding is one of the prime causes of "alternate bearing".

Smaller trees should be grafted to improved varieties and much thought be put into the variety selection. Some of the better varieties for Milam County include the Desirable, Chocotaw, Caddo and Sioux. The Desirable is ranked high for this area by Dr. Fred Brisson, former professor of horticulture at Texas A&M and Bell County pecan man; and E. J. Provasek, local pecan enthusiast. One of its biggest assets is its natural scab resistance.

Other production factors include fertilization and insect and disease control. Pecans respond best to nitrogen applications made in the late winter or early in the growing season.

Zinc should be applied as a foliar spray and is included in spray materials for pecan nut casebearer control and other necessary sprayings. Nitrogen and zinc are the only nutrients that pecans show response to.

The insect and disease control program can be either a preventative program based on a scheduled program; or one based on close observation and experience.

Milam County is very fortunate not to be infected with the Pecan Weevil, which was considered the number one pecan insect in some areas of Texas.

The marketing problem is not too acute in pecans as pecan production is limited to states in the deep South and South-East, and market potentials in the northern states have barely been touched.

FARM and CITY

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

By Danny Phillips

MILAM COUNTY Farm Bureau directors and office staff have official groundbreaking ceremonies for the new 18,000 square foot Farm Bureau office building to be constructed on Travis Street. Holding shovels are V. L. Angell, left, and Robert Jungmann, and next to Jungmann is Shep McClaren, all past FB presidents. Edwin Lehmann, right, is now FB president.

The Christmas spirit was truly evident Monday night at the Christmas party for the Cameron 4-H Club. Some 55 parents and youth gathered in the Community Center in Cameron for the annual affair.

Those present took part in games and sang carols before the exchanging of gifts among the club members. Refreshments were served to those present and everyone then settled back and enjoyed the fun and fellowship with their friends.

Winter months may be the time to be thinking ahead to warm spring days. That statement may ring true in several different cases, but it's particularly true in the area of preparing land for another year of production. Winter months are the months to be preparing land for the next year's crop.

A seed bed that is prepared early and correctly holds more reserve moisture and is quicker and easier to get ready to plant. Also, once established plants respond quicker and the better underground season allows the plant to mature quicker, increases yield and holds on longer during summer droughts.

Soil tests need to be made now for next year's crop because plants receive more closely what they are in need of. Soils may be tested at several different labs and cartons and instructions are available from this office. Putting down at least a part of your fertilizer requirements is also a good practice.

Result demonstrations have for years been a good basis for determining the merits of different varieties and cultural practices. Result demonstration can still serve as a tool to increase farm income.

The slack time during winter months offers individuals a chance to determine what has been learned from past demonstrations and plan ahead for the next year in order to gain information on some new problem.

The range of subjects for result demonstrations is limitless. Grain sorghum, cotton, forage, grass, peanuts, livestock, poultry, and many other basic subjects offer many diversifications into subheading such as cultural practices, insect control, fertilization, stocking rates and others.

Although this article carries the title of 4-H, result demonstrations are more than just 4-H. Anyone in any walk of life, from the farmer, to a gardener to just a home owner can gain useful information on a problem, peculiar maybe only to himself.

Plans do need to be made for demonstrations now. Additional information can be obtained on your particular question from this office. 4-Hers may want to consider this avenue to a new and exciting project experience.

DAIRY PRODUCTION UP

Texas dairy production set an all time high for the testing year ending in September, according to J. W. Davis, Extension dairy specialist. Annual Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) reports show annual milk production per cow increased 604 pounds and butterfat increased 17 pounds above the 1970 averages.

HOG CHOLERA PROGRAM

Texas is now in Phase IV of the hog cholera eradication program. The state passed the last milestone on the way to becoming free of hog cholera on December 7 after a three-month period free of cholera outbreaks. The eradication program began in Texas 10 years ago.

ASCS NEWS

WASHINGTON

Checks totaling $231 million in final payments under the 1971 Set-Aside Wheat Program, were mailed on December 6, 1971 on approximately 1,012,000 participating farms, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced.

These payments are in addition to preliminary wheat payments of $646 million made to farmers on July 1.

The final wheat payment is the difference between the final face value of the domestic certificates -- determined to be $1.63 per bushel -- and the preliminary payment.

SOIL TEST NOW

Producers can get a head start on the 1972 crop year by having their soils tested now, advises Charles Welch, Extension soil chemist. Soils should be tested every two to five years because fertility levels change.

EQUIPMENT SHOW

An equipment and products show will be the highlight of the Texas Plant Food and Equipment Exposition January 4-6 at the Sheraton-Fort Worth Hotel and the Tarrant County Convention Center in Fort Worth.

HOLIDAY SAFETY

Fire safety should be stressed at all times and especially during Christmas. All family members should be fire safety conscious during the holidays when additional fire hazards may be created with combustible trees and decorations or faulty lighting sets.

Hog Cholera Program In Phase IV

On December 7 Texas passed the last milestone on the way to becoming free of hog cholera. The state is now in Phase IV of the hog cholera eradication program and joins all the other 49 states that are either hog cholera free or in Phase IV.

According to Woodrow W. Bailey, livestock and meat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and hog cholera information officer.

"This three-month duration is the longest period with no outbreaks since hog cholera has been a problem in the state -- more than 100 years," says Bailey. "The hog cholera eradication program began in Texas

10 years ago when officials of the Federal Animal Health Commission launched a four-phased plan for all states to stamp out hog cholera."

In Phase IV, the big effort will be for Texas pork producers to keep their herds free of cholera outbreaks for one year. If this is accomplished, the state will then join the ranks of 29 other states now declared free of the disease.

Church Ceremony Unites Couple

Miss Judy Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Simmons of Cameron, and Joe Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe F. Mayer of Cameron, were married November 27 in a nuptial mass at St. Monica's Catholic Church.

Father Pete McCabe officiated at the ceremony. Wedding music was presented by Mr. Ladis Marek, Jr.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory organza and Chantilly lace. It was fashioned with a high neckline, sheer bodice and long full sleeves. The skirt fell from an empire waistline and featured a chapel length train trimmed with a chantilly ruffle. A delicate bow accented the waist at the back. Her veil was held by a bow of organza. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow roses.

Mrs. Jimmy Roach of Temple was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Billy Hawks of Baytown, sister of the bride, Jane Zotz of Cameron and Rhonda Zucha of Waco, niece of the bride who was a junior bridesmaid.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of rayon chiffon lined with acetate taffeta and fashioned with full sleeves, high waist and floral braid trimmed ruffle neckline. They wore double chiffon bows with a nylon veil and each carried a long stemmed yellow rose.

Ronald Litzman of Houston served as bestman. Groomsmen were John Mayer, Fred Mayer and Steve Mayer, all brothers of the groom. Ushers were Julius Zucha of Waco, brother-in-law of the bride, and Artie Beach of Bryan, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a burnt orange knit dress and white mum corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige knit dress and white mum corsage.

A reception honored the couple at Simon George Hall.

Mrs. Artie Beach, sister of the groom, registered guests. Others in the house-party were Denise Botts of Cameron, Mrs. Julius Zucha of Waco, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Billy Simmons of Dallas, sister-in-law of the bride.

The couple will make their home in Temple.

Let Nature Say Merry Christmas

By Christine Laws Co. Home Demonstration Agent

Deck the halls with bows of holly, laurel, mistletoe, and evergreens. Don't forget splashes of brilliant orange and yellow that only Christmas oranges and lemons can give. Your house will be alive with the delicious fragrance and beauty of nature's own decorations.

The orange crop is larger than last year's and promises to be one of the largest recorded crops in the last 26 years. The fruit will be plentiful for the holidays, and price-right for many uses. You can look for slightly smaller oranges this year, but as usual, each seedless package of goodness is perfect for eating. Oranges make the perfect holiday snack, and double for bright and fragrant room decorations. Place them in bowls or baskets with sprigs of greenery.

The new crop of lemons is in the markets now, ready to add zest and flavor to holiday meals. They will be in excellent supply, in a variety of sizes, with bright skins and lots of juice. Use fresh lemon as a great low-calorie seasoning to help counteract calorie-laden holiday meals. Add them to fruit baskets with oranges, and your home will sparkle with color and fragrance.

Don't forget to add fresh tangerines to your holiday fare. They are as much a part of Christmas Christmas stockings! Indeed, they are the ideal stocking stuffers, and always loved for their "easy eatability". You will find good supplies of this popular fruit in your market right now.

Citrus for the holidays wouldn't be complete without the addition of delicious grapefruit. There is a vintage crop this year. The sizes are ideal for every taste and purpose. Their meat is juicy but firm, and the flavor is super. Have plenty of this delicious fruit on hand for low calorie appetizers, desserts, and snacks.

Don't forget to make use of the versatile peel of each of the citrus fruits. You can make candied peel for nibbling or for luscious gift giving. After you have used the juicy meat, the citrus halves can be cleaned of excess pulp and served as colorful sauce boats. You can always freeze shells for quick and useful containers. They are picture pretty.

Holiday overnight guests can be a problem if they happen to be early morning risers. You can solve this by preparing a simple breakfast the night before for guests to take to their room. Use a basket or tray for a small thermos of coffee, fresh homemade coffee cake wrapped in plastic film, and fresh oranges (include cups, sugar, and powdered cream substitute). This is just right to hold the early riser till breakfast time. Here is a holiday sweet bread guests will love.

ORANGE BREAKFAST RING (8 servings)

- 1 pkg. refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
- 4 teaspoons sugar
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 medium oranges
- 1 cup sifted powdered sugar

Remove dough from package; unroll and separate into 8 triangles. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Grate 1 tsp. of peel from orange; reserve for glaze. Peel and cut oranges into segments; drain, reserving 1 table-spoon juice. Place two orange segments at the wide end of each triangle and roll up to opposite end. Curve to make crescent shape. Place five rolls on a baking sheet to form an i-inch circle. Arrange the three remaining rolls in center of ring. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. Remove from baking sheet and place on wire rack. Blend together grated peel, 1 tablespoon orange juice and powdered sugar until smooth. Spoon glaze over hot rolls. Serve warm.

It takes only a few minutes to whip up this marmalade recipe. Put in jars or decorative containers and wrap to have ready for a surprise exchange gift.

ORANGE MARMALADE (About seven 1/2 pint jars)

- 3 medium oranges
- unpeeled, thinly sliced into half-cartwheels (3 cups)
- 1 medium lemon, unpeeled
- thinly sliced into cartwheels (3/4 cups)
- 3 quarts cold water
- Sugar

Combine orange and lemon slices and water in large glass bowl; cover and let stand 12 hours, or overnight. Place in deep, heavy saucepan and bring to a boil; boil hard for 30 minutes until reduced to about 8 cups. Let stand 6 to 8 hours. Measure fruit and liquid; add an equal amount of sugar. Bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Boil rapidly until mixture sheets from a spoon when tested, approximately 30 minutes. Gently stir occasionally to avoid sticking. Remove from heat; stir and skim for 5 min. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal with paraffin.

Here are two decorations that are so simple to make but lend an elegant mod look.

FESTIVE HOLIDAY SWAG

Natural or artificial pine or laurel rope long enough for swag and drops
20 medium size oranges
8 lemons
2 rolls orange cellophane wrap
1 roll yellow cellophane wrap Lightweight household wire
3 yards orange velvet ribbon, 1 1/2 in wide
2 wall hooks to attach swag to wall
Prepare oranges and lemons by cutting 12 - inch squares of cellophane. Place fruit in center of square, bringing edges to stem end and secure with wire. Allow six inches of wire to attach firmly to swag. Use 9 inch squares of yellow cellophane for lemons. Attach 2 oranges and 1 lemon in groups on swag and several single pieces of fruit here and there. Form two bows and attach these with wire to swag; then hang on wall hooks. Or you can lay swag in center of dining table or on mantle top.

MOD ORANGE CENTERPIECE

14 medium oranges
Bright colored metallic foil paper to accent your color scheme
Small ornamental balls the same color as foil paper
14 cylinders in various heights (from toilet tissue, paper towels, juice can)
Green Pine
Wrap each cylinder in metallic foil and secure with glue or tape. Depending on the area to be decorated, arrange cylinders in circle or line. Top each with orange. Arrange greenery around base and scatter balls throughout greens. Keep extra oranges on hand to replace the ones that get eaten. What an inviting way to serve oranges.

Open House Fetes Roses

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rose were honored with an open house Saturday and Sunday on their golden wedding anniversary.

The surprise affair was planned and hosted by their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rose of Houston.

Ocean Floor Is Moving, Say Project Scientists

By Kevin Cooney

NEW YORK

The oldest and deepest rock ever drilled from the Pacific Ocean's floor has shown that the ocean bottom just south of the Aleutian Islands was once under the Equator, according to reports from two leading geologists here.

They also estimated, based on their findings, that the Pacific floor plunges beneath Asia at a rate of four inches a year.

These conclusions were made public by Bruce C. Heezen of Columbia University's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory and Ian D. MacGregor of the University of California at Davis.

The two were co-chief scientists on the just completed 20th leg of the deep-sea drilling project.

The scientists of the project, who represent England, Germany, Japan, Switzerland, the Soviet Union, New Zealand and Australia as well as the United States, charted the movement of the Pacific floor by drilling holes deep into its sedimentary rocks.

They found, at increasing depths as they went northward aboard the research vessel Glomar Challenger a layer of chalk that they identified as Equatorial sediment.

They found that the Pacific's floor had moved northwestward more than 2,000 miles over the past 125 million years.

In their report Heezen and MacGregor said that the deepest sea drilling yet accomplished took place 800 miles southeast of Tokyo.

OLDEST DEPOSITS

The drill bit descended through 20,321 feet of water and then drilled down through another 1,237 feet of rock. The samples brought up were more than 135 million years old -- the oldest deposits yet found in the Pacific.

The two said they were able to trace the ocean floor's migration because from these drill holes they extracted "sedimentary deposits of a type which are today found under the present Equator and which apparently cannot form without a special combination of conditions which at any given time exist only at the Equator."

Their report states: "As 19th century whalers knew, and 20th century tuna fishermen know, there is a rich, narrow 100 to 200 mile belt which straddles the Equator where plankton and fish are abundant. This narrow zone, so rich in life, produces an intense fallout of organic debris including a vast quantity of lime and silica shell material which accumulates on the sea floor."

It was with this "easily distinguished" material that they were able to trace the movement of the ocean floor, which was not steady and continues but underwent reversals in direction that made their task harder.

FLOOR PLUNGES

The scientists also measured the thickness and movement of layers of ash fallout from Asiatic volcanoes. With this data they computed the plunge of the Pacific floor beneath the Asian continent at four inches per year.

Heezen and MacGregor said that geologists had long speculated on how much ocean floor was thrust beneath Asia along the deep-sea trenches, which lie along the western margin of the Pacific.

They said: "By mapping the deposits of volcanic dust cast out on the Pacific floor by the Asiatic volcanoes and determining how fast the deposit has moved towards the volcanoes, a preliminary estimate of four inches per year has been made for the plunge of the northwest Pacific beneath Asia over the past 10 million years."

The drilling team also discovered a seamount west of Bikini that was once an island.

They said it was formed as a volcanic island 70 million years ago and was drowned 50 million years ago as it migrated with the entire sea floor.

They reported it now lies almost a mile beneath the surface of the sea.

ANCIENT MONUMENT

Sofia, Bulgaria, Reuter - A Thracian funeral monument, which experts date back some 3,000 years, has been discovered in a courtyard at Lovech, North Bulgaria. Dating from the end of the Bronze Age, it comprises an urn, tray, cup, and a bronze spear. The grave itself is covered with a two-row arch of river stones.

Tiny Ship Called Hero Braves Antarctic Waters

By Charles Lambelin

PUNTA ARENAS, CHILE

A tiny U.S. research ship called Hero has earned the right to wear its name proudly after three years in dangerous waters off the Antarctic tip of South America.

Commanded by Capt. Franklin P. Liberty, the 700-ton vessel came unexpectedly into the news during a visit here by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in November.

Captain Liberty, a 52-year-old veteran merchant seaman from Intervale, New Hampshire, invited Castro aboard his vessel.

But he was too busy with formal welcoming ceremonies to accept the invitation to visit the ship, owned by the National Science Foundation and operated by the Miami-based Hydro-space Corporation.

The Hero, which has been based in the Chilean port at the gateway to the Antarctic for three years, is now preparing for another expedition in the inhospitable waters. It will include biological surveys, sampling the ocean floor, studying Antarctic seals and glaciology.

"We're a platform from which the scientists work," Liberty said. The ship is available to any scientist in the world. On previous expeditions it has carried French, German, Canadian, Chilean and Argentine research workers.

Specially built for survey work, the sturdy vessel carries three laboratories, a deep freeze, a dryer and sterilization equipment.

Liberty, son of a Frenchman from Normandy, obviously enjoys the tough work and minimizes the dangers.

But he concedes: "We are navigating in uncharted seas about which we have very little information."

"There are also strong tidal currents and some of the roughest seas I have seen in my life in the merchant navy," he adds quietly.

Icebergs are a frequent hazard. Last year a British ship took several hours to navigate around an iceberg 13 miles long and many of the submerged ice blocks are as big as the 125-foot long Hero.

"Fortunately, we can detect them by sonar soundings," said Liberty.

Scientific work is done in summer because there is too much ice in winter. There is not much to relieve the monotony of work in the lonely seas except for a few friendly dolphins and penguins.

On one expedition, the Hero landed 10 scientists on the Antarctic mainland to study botanical life in the rugged country dotted by deep bays and mountains.

Life on board is hard work during the day, with quiet evenings of playing cards, listening to music or reading in the library. After a day in the bitter wind, scientists are tired and retire early.

Liberty has one extra, voluntary task when in port here. He answers dozens of letters from stamp collectors who ask to have a letter sent to them from the bottom of the world with the extra postmark "Antarctic Research Ship Hero."

Japan Researches Chinese Medicine

By Toshio Kojima
Reuter Correspondent

are enjoying a quiet boom in Japan again.

Traditional Chinese medicine, largely ignored in Japan for the past century in favor of modern western drugs, is making a comeback.

One reason for this has been a series of reports from China recently of successful surgical operations using the traditional techniques.

Successes claimed for the ancient method of acupuncture have had particular impact on the Japanese, who seem to have grown increasingly distrustful of the possible harmful side-effects of modern chemical drugs.

The Japanese government is now planning research into the effectiveness of Chinese medicine for the first time in almost 100 years.

In 1874, during a period when Japan was opening up to western influences after century of self-imposed isolation, the government adopted European medicine as part of its efforts to modernize the nation.

But private practitioners have continued to use traditional Chinese medicine, including Chinese herbs and acupuncture -- the practice of inserting carefully placed needles into various parts of the body to treat a wide range of conditions.

The welfare ministry, which plans to start a research program next year, said it had never been scientifically shown why Chinese herbs and medical techniques were effective, but a thousand years of experience had established their efficacy.

Tsai Chung Chieh, a 46-year-old Taiwan-born expert at a Chinese herb company in Osaka, western Japan, said Chinese medicines

Tsai said it usually took longer for Chinese herbs to cure diseases than chemical drugs, but they had less harmful effects.

They were especially effective for such chronic illnesses as asthma, skin diseases and rheumatism, as well as kidney and liver diseases and troubles of the nervous system, he said.

Chinese herbal remedies are mainly made of roots and tree bark. A traditional way to take them is to boil them in water and drink it like tea.

But since scientists developed new techniques it has become easier to extract essences of herbs in a dry form and to mix them, Tsai said.

Such dried essences could easily be made into powder or tablets by modern pharmaceutical technology, he explained.

The finance ministry said approximately 80 per cent of the herbs on the Japanese market came from China and southeast Asian countries.

Officials said improvement of relations between China and Japan would almost certainly result in a further boost in sales.

New Hospital Diets Try To Match Ethnic Patients

By Kevin Cooney

for advanced planning.

Dieticians at New York's municipal hospitals have discovered that people are what they eat -- or at least eat according to what ethnic background they come from -- and are trying to do something about it.

The dieticians at the 18 municipal hospitals have developed a plan that, while certainly not ending the problems of institutional cooking, at least hopes to provide patients with the type of food they are used to -- no mean task in a city marked by ethnic diversity.

Recommendations made in a study, entitled "Diets That Suit the New York Scene," which has written after a year of research by nine city food experts, are being implemented to meet the problems of ethnic pickiness.

Under the new plan, a Jew could be served bagels and lox (smoked salmon) for breakfast, while a Negro or American from the southern states would, hopefully, be enjoying his hominy grits in the next bed.

Other minorities that will be catered to under the plan are Italians, Chinese and Spanish, and there is even a special group of foods set aside for plain old unhyphenated Americans.

The diets were first designed for diabetic patients and are broken down into unsalted, regularly salted moderately salted categories, but the authors of the study say, "These diets may be used for other than diabetic disciplines."

The first application of the study was with people being treated at the city's hospitals on an out-patient basis, said Mrs. Charlotte Scotti, director of dietetics for the Health and Hospital Corporation, the semi-governmental entity that runs New York's health institutions.

She said that in the past it was always difficult to get outpatients to stick to specialized diets because these diets often differed drastically from what the patients were used to eating. The new plan hopes to deal with that problem, she said in an interview.

As far as in-patients were concerned, Mrs. Scotti said, the sample menus listed in the study were being used as the basis for menu planning "wherever feasible" in terms of cost. Availability of produce and the possibility

The "soul food" menu includes porgies and cornbread, sweet potatoes, rutabagas, okra and turnip greens and many other items that would meet with little resistance from a southerner.

A Chinese patient can feast (within limits) on pork with celery and green onions, clear soup with bean curd and sliced beef with green peppers.

The Spanish menu provides for plaitain, chicken with beans and rice, while the Jewish menu is laden with gefilte fish with horseradish, corned beef sandwiches on rye bread with mustard and that favorite curative, chicken soup.

Veal scallopini and spaghetti with meatballs and mozzarella cheese are some of the things the dieticians say will set an Italian on the road to recovery, while their prescription for Americans is Yankee pot roast.

If New York hospital patients are to be what they eat, in the future at least they won't be bland.

North America and the USSR contain four-fifths of the world's supply of softwoods.

Big Thicket Park Bill Presented By Sen. Lloyd Bentsen

WASHINGTON

Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D-Tex) has termed the sponsorship of a 100,000 acre Big Thicket Park Bill by 14 Texas Congressmen "a major Congressional breakthrough in our efforts to save this magnificent ecological resource."

The House bill is a companion measure to the Senator's Big Thicket Park Bill introduced November 16, 1971.

Bentsen said that for too long a splintered approach had frustrated attempts to reach a workable compromise. Numerous bills and proposals for preserving the Big Thicket have surfaced over the years, but agreement has been rare, even among conservationists.

"We now have a great deal of Congressional unity and cooperation among the Texas delegation on a single Big Thicket bill," Senator Bentsen emphasized. "I have said I want a park, not an issue, and I am pleased so many of my Texas colleagues agree."

A variety of earlier bills called for a variety of shapes and sizes ranging from 191,000 acres down to 35,000 acres.

The Bentsen measure calls for a 100,000-acre park but leaves the exact shape and boundaries to be determined by qualified expert with the approval of Congress.

Use Caution In Shopping By Mail

COLLEGE STATION

Is your mail box stuffed each day with catalogs and flyers promoting gift ideas for Christmas? Shopping by mail is increasing both in popularity and in disappointment, reports Doris Myers, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

To avoid disappointment before you order, Mrs. Myers says to make sure you know the firm you're dealing with. Check to be sure that the company will stand behind the products it sells.

One of the most frequent complaints made to the Federal Trade Commission comes from people who ordered items by mail, she points out. Either the consumer paid for the product and never got it or had to wait months for delivery. Or she couldn't get a refund for undelivered merchandise or the merchandise was defective or damaged.

One way to avoid these problems is to order c.o.d., the specialist suggests, but this increases your cost. Another way is to order from companies that have a local office or store so you can discuss your problem in person.

"Eleven, twelve and one more for a baker's dozen," said my grandma, counting out eggs for a customer. "It'll be 'found gold' for her!" And she smiled as she bustled about the shop.

Even then, as a child, I knew that Grandma was the "found gold" for all who knew her — always giving more than was expected, cheerfully looking for ways to gladden those whose lives touched hers.

Today I know that Grandma's strength was of the spirit. The teachings of her church gave purpose to her life. She lived her creed joyously, demonstrating vividly for all around her the vitality and richness of the Christian life.

Today, in a world that sometimes seems dark with selfishness and greed, each of us needs to realize and utilize the spiritual resources of his church as a necessity of life.

By Any Name, Santa Always Pleases Children, Guards Fortunes of Many Adults, Too

When what's-his-name arrives in town, everyone is glad to see him.

Who's that again? Oh, Santa Claus, of course. Or he could be—depending on where he is—St. Nick, Pere Noel, Father Christmas, St. Nicholas, Kris Kringle.

Washington Irving called him Father Knickerbocker. To Russians, he's Grandfather Frost.

This magical man of many names not only brings gifts, he also has a lot of special gifts and powers, according to the lore of Christmas.

Santa inherits his powers from St. Nicholas, a fourth-century bishop. Consequently, he's said to be gifted at guarding the fortunes of children, merchants and sailors. He takes a special interest in helping single girls find husbands, and the earliest pawnbrokers called him their patron.

Fat Deer Taken On Kerr County Area

AUSTIN

The value of good deer management apparently was reflected this fall by the body condition of deer killed on the Kerr Wildlife Management Area in Kerr County.

Although range and weather factors limited the overall harvest this year, the individual deer taken by hunters on public hunts were heavier than in the past several years.

The harvest during November was 84 deer, and hunter success was gauged at 28 percent. The average field-dressed weight of bucks older than yearlings was 92 pounds. Antler size was slightly below normal.

Veterans Eligible For New Project

Veterans with recent military health training and experience are eligible for free vocational and educational counseling and placement assistance through The University of Texas School of Public Health at Houston.

The UT school is conducting Texas Project MED-IHC (Military Experience Directed Into Health Careers) under contract with the Bureau of Health Manpower Education, National Institutes of Health of the United States Public Health Service, in cooperation with the Department of Defense.

MEDIHC's purpose to assist military health personnel make a successful transition to civilian health careers and to help relieve the critical shortage of trained health personnel in Texas.

Biologists Seek Fish For Deep Water Reservoirs

Would the real deep-water game fish for Texas lakes please swim forward?

There are three species of fish waiting in the wings.

Will it be the striped bass, the walleye or the redbell?

Perhaps it eventually will be all three, as biologists of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department are girding for intensified research to find a game fish to utilize a virtually wasted resource -- the large, deep-water reservoir with its millions of small forage fish.

What's the matter with native Texas game fish? Nothing, except that fisheries biologists say that the natives evolved as stream or pond fish and are ill-suited for life in the open waters. They prefer shallower water where there is vegetation and concealment.

Only the white bass, or sand bass, is considered an open-water fish in Texas. But the sandy is limited in size and feeds only on the smaller shad.

This still leaves a lot of unused water, especially in older lakes which have suffered declines in fishing productivity.

The striped is a saltwater fish which apparently thrives in fresh water and can even spawn in fresh water under the right conditions. But getting a strong adult population started in a lake which has an established population of native fish is a tricky task.

Biologists feel this problem can be whipped if enough stripers can be obtained for release. This is a problem, because the Eastern Seaboard states which have furnished striped fry in the past are hard pressed to meet the growing demand.

Badgers Lose In Tourney

The Buckholts Badgers faced Hutto Thursday at Thrall and were forced to yield to them 77-24 as the Hippos went on to first place in the boy's bracket.

Tommy Johnson led Hutto with 22 points, Nygrin had 16, Klaus 14, and Jacobs 8. Stein made 4 and Barnes had 3. They had 38 percent in free throws.

The Badgers traveled to Thrall once more Friday to play the Thrall "B" team. The Badgers took the lead early but couldn't hold on to it as the Tigers scored 15 points to their 2 in the final quarter. The Tiger's hot final quarter carried them to a 40-36 victory.

Badger Larry Orsag bucketed 14 points while Glenn Roesler dumped 7, Early Webb and Carl Tomascik made 6 apiece, and Dale Walzel had 3. They made 28 percent at the free throw line.

Thrall's Jackson was high pointer with 13 points. Patschke made 11, the Roberson twins each had 6, and Klotz and Jackson each made 1 field goal. Their percentage was 46.

Told in Rhyme

The story of the Nativity and its meaning for mankind is a favored poetic theme, as is the holiday cheer of hearth and home.

Poets as diverse as William Shakespeare, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, John Greenleaf Whittier and T. S. Eliot have made their contributions.

Numerous carols first were poems--witness Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day";

"I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet the words repeat,
'God is not dead, nor doth He sleep.'"

Probably the overwhelming winner among widely-known secular Christmas poems is Clement Clark Moore's "A Visit from St. Nicholas."

The poem, written for his own children in 1822, is popularly called, "Twas the Night before Christmas."

Christians Celebrate Holy Day With Prayer and Thanksgiving

For those who celebrate Christmas as a holy day, the holiday is greeted with rejoicing, with prayer and thanksgiving, in church and private devotions.

The word "greeting" has a special significance here, for herald angels singing to shepherds in the fields and a star shining in the heavens truly brought greetings--according to the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, "good news of great joy which will come to all people."

Long before the December 25 birthday of Christ was celebrated in devotions, it had marked a season set aside for another kind of greeting. In Northern Europe, Teutonic tribes of pagan times greeted the rebirth of the sun, of the winter solstice.

Earliest celebrations of Christmas combined some of the ancient pagan traditions. By association with Christian beliefs, old customs of greeting the sun became symbolic of a recognition--a greeting of faith, hope and life eternal.

Begins in Italy

Christmas belongs to the people. So thought St. Francis of Assisi.

His way of helping his Italian parishioners grow closer to Christmas was to create the very first praesepe, or Christmas crib.

His carol, "The Song of the Creatures," made the Nativity still more real to them since it told of the lowly animals which were part of their lives and livelihood.

All this happened early in the 13th century. From that time, the idea of the creche or crib has spread to virtually every country on the globe.

Today, especially in Latin America and Europe, the manger scene sets the theme for a holy and happy Christmastide.

Inspires Music

In serious music as well as popular carols, the Nativity scene lives on.

Handel's "Messiah," Bach's "Christmas Oratorio," Berlioz' "L'Enfance du Christ" are noteworthy examples of music performed year after year at Christmas.

More recently, Britten's "Ceremony of Carols," Honnegger's "Christmas Cantata" and Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" have joined the holiday medley of musical treatments.
